

The Impact Incubator

with Gary & Angela Herrington

Module 13 Video 1

It's Transition Time!

- The last few weeks we've been working on getting super clear on what you're called to speak, who needs to hear it, and why you're the perfect person to do it.
- We've also been working on rooting out false beliefs, eliminating activities that don't align with your calling, and no longer tolerating things that pull you away from God or drain you.
- Now we get to make an exciting shift where we start building new things with those resources you've freed up

Where Is Your Community?

- In module 11 we talked about who you're called to serve and where God has placed you in the community you're called to serve.
- Take a moment here to review your notes on that section and refresh your memory.
- As we move into this season of building, remember that there are multiple ways to build a community and it's not possible to do them all at once.
- Discern where to start and pace yourself.

Introducing...

Community Building

- There are literally hundreds of ways to build community around your mission mantra and your Big “T” Truth.
- Communities can be any size, virtual or in person, long term or short term.
- The thing that connects each person to the community is their hunger for transformation in the area of your Big “T” Truth.

So Where Do You Want To Start?

- You probably have a really long list of things you want to do and people you want to serve, but pick one thing that's close to your heart and relatively easy to get off the ground.
- For some this will be a FB page or a blog. For others it will be joining a MOPS group as a mentor or small group. Others may feel called to join a short term mission trip or begin volunteering at a local non-profit.

Prayerfully Consider...

- Before going to the next video, jot down a list of 5-10 ways to connect with your community that you are most excited about saying yes to in this season.
- Don't get hung up on the logistics, make this list purely from what you've learned about your calling, your God, and your people.
- Share a screenshot of your list in the group before watching the next video.

Self Care Break

1. Take a few moments for self care before proceeding to the next activity.
 2. Recognize that you are not in the same place as the 'you' you were observing.
 3. Get up and walk around for a few minutes, stretch, grab a drink of water, and reset a little before starting the next video.
-